

CultureKids is an organization dedicated to teaching children the Spanish language. Using unique and innovative curriculums, the program utilizes diverse teaching methods to include games and activities to introduce basic Spanish vocabulary. CultureKids program offerings include: Spanish For Preschoolers, Spanish For The Elementary Years and Spanish Cultural Camp. Visit the website at www.CultureKidsClub.com

About the instructors:

Lisa Almeter is founder and director of CultureKids. She studied in Madrid, Spain and Lima, Peru and has traveled to Quito, Ecuador and Acapulco, Mexico to learn the Spanish language and culture. She has a degree in Spanish/Psychology with an emphasis in Child Development from John Carroll University along with a love of the Spanish language and culture. She is a proud mother of four children.

Karen Genovese is an elementary art school teacher. Karen has her degree from Villa Maria College in Graphic Design and her Bachelor's Degree in Art Education from Buffalo State College. She is currently pursuing her Master's Degree. She has over ten years of teaching experience. Karen uses a very creative and interactive approach to getting her students excited about art and art history. She is a proud mother of three children.
